

Beyond These Walls: Promoting Health and Human Rights of Youth in the Justice System

SATURDAY, November 5, 2005
Northwestern University School of Law
Lincoln Hall
357 East Chicago Avenue- 1st Floor
Chicago, Illinois

Physicians for Human Rights presents a conference on the health and human rights of youth involved in the justice system. All health professionals, child advocates, and students of medicine, nursing, social work, public policy, law, and criminal justice are welcome and encouraged to attend.

Please join us for a discussion of the history, complexities, and challenges of the juvenile justice system. Adolescent brain development, disproportionate minority contact, over-incarceration of youth, youth mental health needs, community-based services, restorative justice, and the treatment of youth as adults in the criminal justice system are among the issues this conference will address.

Meet experts, advocates, and activists working towards positive health and justice outcomes for youth. Find out what you can do to ensure the rights of youth in the justice system are upheld and develop an understanding of health and human rights.
